NLW YORK, Jan. 8 America's cup committee to-day formally accepted the Dunraven challenge of Dec. 6, subject to modifications made by cable yesterday. This closes the dispute as to the terms and conditions under which the races of 1893 were sailed. The cup committee player insisted upon a different challenge from that under which the races of 1893 were sailed, for the reason that considerable ancertainty existed as to the holding of the cup for future races. They did not want to give the Biltons a chance to take the cup over to English waters and hay courses for the next international races such as the Vigilant sailed over last summer and met with defeat by yachts her inferior in her own waters.

A Negro Burglar Lynched in Misslessippi.

JACKSON, Miss, Jan. S. Spencer Costello, a negro burglar and desperado, was lynched vosterday near Flora, thirty miles from here Last Saturdy might he enterted the store of E. H. Green and asked to see some articles. While a young man named Dewees was showing jim the goods Costello dealt him a terrible blow on the head with a lattler He then robbed Dowees' pocket of $3, the drawer of $15 and left the store believing Dowees was dead. When the latter recovered coasciousness he crawled to neighbors and told what had happened. A posse at oroce started in pursuit. A classe was lept up all day Sunday and late in the afternoon Costello was captured at Posshontas within a few miles of the scene of his crime. Close watch was placed over him but in some manner he escaped. He was recuptured yesterday near Flora and hunged by friends of Dowees. Costello was an ex-couviet and guilty of many crimes. There is no hope of Dowees recovery.

Di VIR, Col., Jan 8 Governor elect McI tyre was innigurated to day. Regarding monetary matters, he said. The enhanced value of gold is due to legislation in its layor. The lowering prices of the last 20 years are simply the measure of the mere as the value of gold to silver be cause it is the money of the constitution, not because we expect as impathy or charity from any source, nor because we has producers, are interested at enhancing its value, but because its its absolutely declared by the natural law of commerce that cannot be disothyled without the punishment residual pecome more and more grievous and yellowed without the punishment in being inflicted now and will pecome more and more grievous mothered mercane can be more and more grievous mothered for the trusting force of natural laws. This country must submit, first, because its growth in population and the consequent greater need of commercial expinsion will make the friction of clogged exchanges more and more intense. The only remedy is the restoration of silver at a ratio with gold of 16 to 1.

HORIBLE BRUTALITY,

at Port Arthur.

Streets Strewn with Bodies Showing Many Forms of Mutilation.

London, Jan S. The Times publishes advices from Kobe, under dute of Dec. Jd., giving the alleged details of the massacre at Port Arthur. The Times correspondent states that the slaughter was carried out with every revolting feature of primal barbarity. Four dwys were spent in morder and pillage and from dawn to dark horrible mutilations of every conceivable kind and nameless atrocity were perpetrated Trisoners were tied together in groups, riddled with bullets and then hacked to pieces. Bouts crowded with fugitives of both sens and all ages received volley after volley of bullets. The streets were stream with coppess showing every ghastly form of mutilation. The streets were stream with coppess showing every ghastly form of mutilation. The soldiers were apparently unchecked in their dueds of Theorems of Oriental oracity which has every been invented. The soldiers were apparently unchecked in their dueds of blood by their commanders, who, totally losing their European veneer, showed absolute unconsciousness of the effect of these brutalities on their western visitions. They did not forget to be effusively attentive to them, and did not appear to suspect that their guests were filled with indignation and dispust.

The times and a did not appear to suspect that their guests were filled with indignation and dispust.

The times are a editorially that it impossible to doubt that the General in command could have stopped the barbarous mutilation if he had lett so disposed, but his failure to prevent it has east an indelible blot on the Japanese army, and has gone far to destroy the admiration which Europe was so liberally extending to the Japanese. It will scarcely be thought, other, that the Japanese government had bitherto shown sufficient sensitiveness in the matter.

Fireworks in the House. There was a lively display of Congressignal skyrockets in the House Tuesday l or some time past it has been intimated that the Fresident is once more taking a hand in shaping legislation and has been applying the serews with a view of forcing his financial scheme through the House This question has been a bitter bone of contention in the ranks of the far above normal. But right here, in one Democrats since the opening of the session and from present indications the Congressional leam is about to balk out-At the party cancus Monday att rnoon it was declated by a vote of 81 to in to support and pass, if possible, the

This "if, however, has assumed very large proportions. In the first place it was agreed that the action of the caucus was of no binding force upon the mem bers who participated But notwith-standing this fact the notual number was twenty seven short of a voting quotum in the House It requires 107 votes to make a quorum while ily $1 have signified their intention of supporting the measure. In this conection the Washington correspondent the Boston Journal writes the Boston formal writes

I he division in the cauchy was hardly represented by the vote In the list of strong the current fiscal year. From this source, however the Government will derive $13,000,000 more revenue during the next six months, or the who opposed it it is to be doubted whether there are any who are disposed to support it I take their fore difficult to see how the Administration Demo tarts expect to pass the bill through the flower unless they can rely upon some flower unless they can rely upon some flower. The revenue is to be felt during the second half of the viar—the income tax. The revenue is to be felt during the second half of the viar—the income tax. The revenue is to be felt during the second half of the viar—the income tax. The revenue is to be felt during the second half of the viar—the income tax. House unless they can roly upon some lepublican votes from whit is now known of the imper of the kepublican acrobers it is impossible to think that any considerable number of them will vote for this bill to reestablish under when for this bill to recent this hinder a disguised form a measure to restore the old wildcat system of banking. The bill is of course only to be brought to a vote by the adoption of a special rule for that purpose to be secured by the committee on Rules. Innsemble his the resolution which wis indepted in caucus was one drafted by the speaker himself it is to be assumed that he expects to force the necessary rele through the Committee, on Rules and to compel the adoption of it by the House of if the Leput lifeans be disposed to take no part in this matter and so allow the Democrats to dispose of the subject by their own quorum, it is drill subject by their own quorum, it is drill all we the Democrats to dispose of the subject by their own quorum, it is drill cuit to see how the Democrats can accomplish their purpose by the last of this week. But there is no reason to suppose that the Republicans will place obstruction in the way or that they will withhold their votes on a Couranny bill. The action of the Administration Democrats in foreing this decision as to the bil, tends to confirm the belief that it is the purpose of the Administration to puss this bill through both houses if possible hoping in confirmed to secure, such a oping in conference to secure such ne sure as will be more acceptable. Bu he action of the cancus is not definite coogh to warrant the conclusion that the bill can pass the Heuse. If the can can oppose it be Heuse. If the can can oppose it of the bill be as determined in the Heuse as they were in the cincus the Dimocrats may not secure a major by for the majoure in the House.

The debute in the House I needay in licates that the Democratic opponents of the bill propose to kick over the traces in a manner that will not tend to make te life of the White House driver alto gether happy Mr Sibley of Pennsyl anda arraigned the Administration anguage that was exceedingly emphatic If not elegant. His speech was of a most areat onal character and his alliteration brought down the House He denounced the part of the President and declared that if ever a rebuke was needed to one who has trampled down the prerogitive of the people it is to that man who used his influence or who has a tempted to use it to create in blinself the sole governing power of the nation

This speech will make a good compar on piece to the celebrated Corman and shows not only the democalization of the Democratic party but the complete downfull of the President who is in a fair way to learn even before he finally drops from jubile view that the star of his des thy his deserted him in the most trying period of his career A Depleted Treasury

The Washington correspondent of the New York Iribane writes The new Democratic reform tariff law has been in operation for four months As a matter of fact, however its force on government revenues has been felt for fully six menths and is plainly reflected in the

I reasury Department s official statement of receipts and expenditures for the first half of the current ascal year. In this short period the law has proved limit an absolute failure as an adequate revenue-producer. When it was first brought forward and when it became law, government was running behind bx penditures exceeded receipts, and more revenue was needed. Everybody agreed in that, and its promoters and champions promised increased revenues under it The new law, however, bus so far falled utterly to produce the revenue expected from it by its champions, and never will Under its operation, the government has been steadily running behind, month after month, so that at the end of half a year a Democratic tariff reform operations expenditures have exceeded receipts fully $27,000,000, and with fair prospect of doubling that deficit by the end of the current fiscal year Last August, when the new lariff bill was in the ilmbo of conference, and just before it became law, Secretary Carlisle in a letter to Senator Harris estimated receipts for the current fiscal year under the proposed law at $378,000,000, a sum amply sufficient, he thought, to pay expenses for the year and leave a surplus of $15,000,000 Other optimistic sup-porters of flids benign law—which Grover Cleveland wouldn't sign and couldn't veto, or couldn't or wouldn't veto-soon after it went into operation enthusiastically predicted a surplus at the close of the current fiscal year of anywhere from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000. Secretary Carlisle, so hopeful and buoyant las August in predicting a surplus of $15, 000,000, three months later in his annual message to Congress revised his former estimate and "came down" a matter of $35,000 on receipts under the new law and then estimated a deficiency of $20,-000,000, instead of a surplus of $15,000, Observation of three months' opera tion of the new law diminished his con fidence in it as a rvenue-producer to the extent of $35,000,000 a year. If the Secretary would now examine and analyze carefully the figures put out from his department on Jacuary 1, showing the results of the revenue operations for the inst six months, his confidence in the capacity of the Gorman-Wilson law to produce revenue would probably shrink another $20,000,000,or so, and he would look for a deficiency of at least $40,000,-000 at the end of the current fiscal year, In his roylsed estimate the Scorétary placed customs receipts at $160,000,000; internal revenue $165,000,000, and receipts from miscellancous sources $15, 600,000, a total of $340,000,000. Already the revenues for one-linit of the current oustims, $82,000,000 from internal rov-enue, and $7,500,000 from miscellaneous ources; a total of $159,500,000. As suming that receipts for the last half would equal receipts for the first half of the year, $319,000,000 would be a fair estimate of the revenue for the year, or $21,000,000 less than the Secretary's All thusiness letters should, he addressed to entelle Brothers, and communications intended estimate; but this is more than should

Mr. Carlisle's original estimate inluded in customs revenues $43,000,000 from sugar duties. This amount is 40 per cent of the value of free sugar importations during the previous year Undoubtedly this is too high an estimate, for no sane man in these hard times, and under a Democratic Administration which is to lust two years longer, expects the consumption of even this necessary equal importations of free augar between July 1, 1893, and June 30, 1894, which in the latter months of that fiscal year were particular, is where the force of the Gor-man Wilson law was felt in revenue long before it became law

The Sugar Lrust people early last spring, anticipating its passage with a 10 per cent ad valorem tax on sugar, began importing freely, and before August 28 when the new law went into effect, had imported nearly a half year s supply free of duty As a consequence. revenues from sugar duties in September, October November and December, o since the new law went into operation. mere bagatelle compared with what was and consequent diminished consumption, the prospect is poor of revenues from this source netting the Government more than $18,000,000 during the remaining of the year-the mecome tax. The revtime from this source is estimated at $15,000,000 This estimate is purely connetural. It may be more or may be less than $1,000 000, but with the opposition to making the law of cratice stready seen in the Senate and with the constitutionallty of the law about to be tested in the highest court in the land, the prospect is shadowy But this is not all The revised estimate places expenditures for the year at $160 000,000 i or the first half of the year expenditures aggregated $18 951 922, or about $7,000,000 more had the estimate. A like profligate expenditure for the second half-and there is good reason to expect newould add $11,000,000 more to the deficit for the

Altogether with the hard times follow ' Cleveland panie of 93" and sustailed by the Democrate tariff re forms with insignificant merchandise wheat at 51 cents a bushel, and of cot ton at 6 cents a pound—the lowest prices in the history or the country-and with a Democratic Administration and Congress threating to reform the currency, the outlook in the mean future for bush mes may be discouraging, but for a big the close of the current itseal year It is extremely promising was subverted by collesion with the then American minister. The thing to which he desired to call particular attention was that the so-called republican government in the Hassilan Islands is based on a thial disregard of the rights of the native inhabitants.

Those natives held only 2 per cent. of the lands of the islands. They had been driven to inferior lands and fertile and productive lands were monopolized by strangers. These strangers had taken possession of the government and controlled it and had "the infinite impudence to characterize it as a republic." If consonance with popular liberties as essential to republicanism then that government was an aristocracy, based on wealth. HARTYORD, Conn., Jan. 18. In the superior court to-day, Judge Robinson rendered a decision in the saits of the administrator of Nancy Bailey for $6,000 and Mary Bailey for $6,000, all of Higganum, against the town of Bristol. In a runeway about a year ago, Nancy Bailey was killed and two others were injured. It is alleged by the plaintiffs that the accident was caused by a defeotive highway. The town defaulted on the question of damages. Judge Robinson awarded each plaintiff $1 and costs.

Mr Palmer (Dem., Ill) said that on the question of the overthrow of the native government of the Hawalian ileasticution prevailing among the people. It peromised that employment would be given within three days. This did not satisfy the crowd and marching into the city it made an attack upon several stores but the police limity drove them.

A body of mounted police arrived shortly afterward and the combined forces managed to keep the crowd at buy until darkness came, when the floters dispersed. Four leaders were arrested. The streets to-night are crowded with neople A guard from the war ship Tourbellot and the principal buildings, as it is feared that other raids may be attempted during the night.

Despication of the property of the street of the streets to inquire into anything which affected the interests of the United States.

"It is the business of the Senate,' Mr Palmer replied, "to confine itself to its own constitutional daties. All the wis dom and pariotism is not found within these wills. But the President is as conscious of his duties and expible of discharging them as the aggregate membership of the Senate or Organized to riosity is often simply organized functions.

After considerable further colloquy among the benators Mr Aldrich sent to the clerk's deak a recent newspaper interview with the President. Before the clerk finished reading it the morning hour expired and the resolution again went to the calendar Mr. Aldrich asked unanimous consent to have the resolution left pending in the morning four Objections wire made by Mr. Garman.

The House went into committee of the trade which Congress could not in safety long antagonize. It was to make the paper currency and bonds of the United States interchangeable, the latter to bear the rate of 2% of 3 per cent. When the currency was in demand bonds would be exchanged for it, when in redondancy currency would be retired. Only such a plan would solve the problem.

Mr Bland (Dem., Mo) then spoke with great earnestness. In his spoech against the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act Mr Bland sand that he prophesied that this bill would be proposed as a part of the great conspiracy and that Congress would be possible for this bill to be enucted into a law, after the disappearance of green-bucks, the next step would be to eliminate silver altogether.

The House was confronted by a demand, Mr. Bland said, that was ever present, to surrender to banks power to control the volume of currency of the country. Instead of doing that his plan for the relief of the troubles which affect the country, was to restore silver to a constitutional place with gold. Then would all preservate industries revive and the condition of the people be improved.

Mr. Bland said the gentleman who believed they were going to get State banks amild; the operations of the bill, were sure to be disappointed. In his opinion, but banks would not be stimulated into existence by the previsions. The volume of currency would not, in his opinion, be increased by the law, after the disappearance of gree visions. The volume of currency would not, to his opinion, be increased by the hill, as he friends assert, for, according to the witness before the committee on prove Their Opportunities-Many of the Wall Street Morouries Have Access to

NESSENGERS WHO ARE NOT OF THE SLOW PERSUASION.

"Of course you know those chaps do not live on their salaries," said a Wall street broker a few days agp, pointing to one of those speedy messengers that are seen daily just before the close of the exchange flying frantically along the street. "Just notice the next one that come along," the broker continued "It is 16 to 1 that he wears diamonds. If he does ot, he is ignorant of the business " At that moment one of the "messen gers, " having performed his speedy and mercurial duty, passed by on his way back to the office Sure enough, on the hand with which he mopped his perspiring face there glistened a two carat

"It's easy enough," said the broker philosophically, "and it cannot be help ed Many of these messengers are 'con fidential'-that is, in the hurry of the closing moments of the exchange they receive orders of the most important na ture that are simply written on an open sheet of paper Many of these messen gers are frugal and quick witted fellows who are ready to take advantage of or portunities as quick as a flash. So far as I know, they do nothing absolutely dishonest, although in many cases such a thing would be possible
"Very often when they are given on ders to convey to brokers they diges them thoroughly, debate the chances of success and act accordingly. If they think the order a good one they rush around to some bucket shop and buy or sell, according to the temps of the order That is why they wear diamonds. It is an easy thing for a messenger for a firm like that of Connor & Co. or Cammack to make money All they have to do n to follow their opportunities Go aven to the Consolidated Exchange, and you

The broker was right While the bulls were believing and the lambs were bleating around the big rathing two or three messengers who happened two or three messengers who happened to have nothing particular to do were hanging around watching the market with foverish anxioty Protty soon they were re-enforced by a new arrival. He rushed up to the railing and shouted frantically to a young broker on the floor whom I happened to know A whispered consultation took place, and then the broker dived into the molecular and began to bid on a stook until he so cured the proper amount, when he emerged fush and perspiring "It's pretty hot work in there, isn't

"I, should say it was, ' he replied "especially when nobody wants to soll "Who was the young man who gave you the order a few minutes ago?" I in

"He's a chap that works for the firm of ___ & Co, ' was the reply ''He's a shrewd boy, too, and it is seldom that he is wrong on the market 'Perhaps he has exceptional oppor

tumties," I suggested
"I suppose that is it—It sine business of mine, though He has an account with me, and it is never overdrawn In fact, it is constantly increasing I got my start in the same way, and, in fact, a great percentage of the brokers in the street were once messengers of one kind or another " I asked an old broker who had grown gray in the street what he knew about speculation among messengers He said It has moreased wonderfully during the last ten years. In the old days, when speculation was heavier, it took far les so sway the market than now the messengers speculated at their own peril. The turns and changes were far more quick and decided, and it was as almost sure thing that the small spice lator would be wiped out in a day of with thanks for their whole-hearted so. Not half so many men are living by entertainment and wishes for many more speculation in Wall street as formerly, and many of those who dabble in the street do so merely for the fun of it Consequently they do not guard their tips as closely as in former years "Not long ago I went into Delmoni co's for dinner, and sat down at a table opposite a young man whom I recog nized as a messenger for a promuten Wall street speculator I would be will ing to take an oath that missalary is not over $15 a week. Vet there he sat with diamonds on his fingers and in his shirt front, eating pate de foie gras as though he had lived upon it all his life. I sup puse he had made a lucky stroke on some tip which his employer had sont to his broker, and which he had taken advantage of ''

Most of the Wall street brokers seem to regard this sort of speculation among the messengers as "smart" and legit mate. There are several large bucket shops along Broad street which are reyou can make a deal with $10

Most of them, however, will not touch anything below 100 shares "There is no messenger speculation i this place," said Mr Henry Clews have never yet seen a messenger who could afford it. Some of them have come in here with orders from reputable firms, which have been honored by me, but I would not allow any mes
